Cross Generational Strategies: By 2020, five generations will be employed alongside one another in the workplace. With four generations in the workforce today, tensions are inevitable, but problems are avoidable. These generations think differently, vote differently, buy differently, and dress differently. Work ethic, respect, turnover, dress code, communication tools, and fun at work can create real problems for the workplace, or they can provide opportunities to bring the generations together. The bottom line is that what worked in the past doesn't work now. Members of one generation will often grumble about another generation using stereotypes that hinder a team with needless sticking points. This course will show you a practical approach to get the five generations working together.	PDCGS1
Cultural Competence & Higher Education: Provides participants with an understanding of multiculturalism and cultural competence within the broad context of higher education. This session will focus on enhancing our awareness, knowledge and skills in the area of multicultural competence in order to work more effectively with diverse student, faculty and staff populations. Our university's efforts related to diversity will be discussed and participants will explore the connection between multicultural competency and their professional role at the university. This course counts toward the Diversity & Inclusion Certificate Series.	PDDI02
Cultural Competence in Administration & Management: Explores cultural competence as it relates to the administrative, management, and leadership tasks common throughout our campus environment. Participants will reflect on how diversity influences leadership, planning, and teamwork in their areas. The multicultural competencies associated with meaningful and culturally relevant services are identified, and strategies for developing these competencies are explored. This course counts toward the Diversity & Inclusion Certificate Series.	PDDI03
Cultural Competence in Teaching & Research: Focuses on the theoretical basis for multicultural competence. During the session participants will explore oppression, its effects on the college community and the overall FSU experience. Participants will use case studies and small group exercises to learn and apply relevant theories to current challenges related to diversity in higher education. This course counts toward the Diversity & Inclusion Certificate Series	PDDI04
D&I Cert Orientation: This workshop is designed to introduce participants to the purpose and goals of the FSU Diversity & Inclusion Certificate. This session will outline the three components of the certificate in detail and will also provide tips on how to navigate the Certificate's site online. Instructors will guide trainees through the system in hands-on exercises designed to ensure comfort with navigating within the system, understanding how to read student data, and answer basic questions from students regarding searching and registering for classes. This course is appropriate for staff and faculty who use the student system intensively in the course of their workday. Casual users, who may only occasionally need to look up a student's contact information or schedule, would be best served taking advantage of short online tutorials available at a later date. Prerequisite: Student Central 101. Staff and faculty who change majors and perform enrollment functions will also need to register for the next course in this series, Student Records 201.	SCSR1
